

An Ode to Water

Hello my dear friend water. Where are you?;

Oh! You are everywhere. What I'm asking you!

You are in our body, you are in the air,

But humans don't conserve you. Shall it strike, in our minds, fear?

If humans don't save you then you will be seen
only in tears;

It is a huge problem for our futures, I fear.

We can grow food because water is there,

You help to grow trees, hence oxygen is released in air.

Water helps human beings very much;

There are no words to thank god's gift like such

But I will try to show gratitude to you
through this poem;

Yes!!!!

You are very important to all human beings;

Thanks for helping all living things.
